CHAIRMAN'S COMMENTS

Our U3A Christmas celebrations commenced at the December meeting. The whole combination of home produced Drama Group performances, followed by the Choir singing Christmas music, leading into communal carol singing was excellent. We had no traumas this year with the timing of the buffet, and unlike last year, I did remember to unlock the gates well before members arrived. Afterwards, we received many comments from members who had enjoyed the event. This made the effort worthwhile.

A big than kyou goes to all those involved, the performers, scriptwriters, musicians, choristers, committee members, and many others who helped on the day.

By the time many of you read this, we will have completed our first meeting at the United Reformed Hall and Church. The committee have considered many aspects to enable the meetings to run smoothly in this new situation. Our contacts at URC have been very helpful and supportive to help us ensure that this temporary move is successful. We will need to know of any particular difficulties or other issues associated with this move if we are to address them.

Our meeting for new members took place on 29th November and we were pleased to welcome 38 new members and 15 group leaders. As with previous similar meetings I believe that learning more of the operation of all levels of the U3A proved useful for those attending. Of course, informal contact between members, group leaders and committee is beneficial to all groups.

Contact with other organisations can also be beneficial. Our U3A choir under the direction of Elizabeth Snowball recently performed at Sutton Court, Werrington. The audience there were delighted. The choir were given a donation to give to a church of their choice. The £20 was passed on to Barn Hill as a contribution to the refurbishment fund. The performance benefited all three organisations.

A happy New Year to you all. I hope that you have also had a good Christmas.

Best wishes, Dick Colgrove

THE TRIP TO LISBON

Sixteen members of the Travel Group visited Lisbon for five days early in November - it was an excellent trip! The weather

Opened in 1998, this bridge is the longest suspension bridge in Europe, which revolutionised the was so good that we all felt that summer had returned! The hotel was very central and everyone soon found out their way about making use of the excellent public transport which included trams.

It was very noticeable how the Portuguese like the English, perhaps it is not surprising as Portugal is England's oldest ally! This means that most Portuguese speak very good English, a fact that was amply demonstrated by the linguistic prowess of our young guide and our bus driver.

On the first full day we had a tour of this beautiful city, which dates from 1755 after an earthquake completely destroyed its predecessor. Its impressive buildings include the Jeronimos (Mosteiro dos Jeronimos) (Photo above left). This building bears silent witness to the wealth of the Age of Discoveries as expressed in its unique Portuguese Manueline architectural style. Also very impressive was the Torre de Belem (Photo above right) which was originally built in 1520 as a fortress on a basalt island close to the right bank of the river Tagus. Such has been the progressive southward creeping of the shore over the years that the tower is not virtually moored on the bank itself.

We also visited the old quarter of Alfama with its narrow and cobbled streets. Throughout the visit we were continually reminded of Portugal's history with its emphasis sea voyages and discovery.

On the second day we all did our own thing! Some of us visited the ruins of Saint George's Castle (Castelo de Sao Jorge) high above Lisbon, with wonderful views of the city, the River Tagus and the famous Vasco da Gama bridge.

approaches into Lisbon from its surrounds. We had a relaxed few hours at a wonderful restaurant, but we did not forget our cultural pursuits and we viewed an exhibition of paintings of the modern artist - Antonio Carmo. Nor did we forget our retail therapy and we managed to fit a shopping trip to one of the nearby malls!

The next day we toured the lovely fishing village of Sesimbra where we all enjoyed a wonderful lunch in the sunshine by the sea. The tour also included a visit to Setubal, a large port with a stunning 16th Century cathedral. One of the highlights was a visit to a vineyard where we sample a variety of its wines - hic!

Our last morning was at leisure and many visited the nearby Gulbenkian Museum. This museum, a legacy from the famous Armenian oil billionaire, who died in 1955, is unique in that the terms of the legacy does not allow selling or buying additional pieces, so the vast collection of some 5000 works collection will remain the same size for ever. The collection includes European paintings ranging from the Renaissance to Impressionism, Egyptian sculpture, Roman medals, Islamic ceramics and textiles, illuminated manuscripts, 18th-century French furniture and silver, and spectacular jeweled objects by Lalique.

At the end of the day, what we all will remember of this holiday is the beauty of the city and its surroundings, the friendliness of the people, the wonderful shops and restaurants and Portugal's impressive past history. We were all very thankful to Paddy Thompson for all her work, and for looking after us so well.
